HONOR GOES TO GIRL PITCHERS

Pitchers won the captaincy both of senior and junior girls' baseball teams at the University. Marie Parker now heads the 1920 team, and Frances Baine is captain of the 1921 nine. Interclass games will begin this week, it is expected.

O. U. HAS TWO FROM OLD TEAM FOR BASKETBALL

Coach Ben G. Owen at University of Oklahoma is determined that the Sooners shall be in the running for the conference title in basketball this winter. Basketball practice is now being held each evening at Norman. As a nucleus around which to build his five, Coach Owen has Phil White, forward, and Waite, guard, from last season.

BILLIKENS COUNT ON WINNING SATURDAY

According to the St. Louis papers, Missouri is expected to annex the Valley championship again and considers Saturday's contest with the Billikens in the light of a practice scrimmage. They add that Coach Rademacher is silent about his chances but intends to put up a hard fight. Silence on the part of Coach Rademacher is a golden quality and one that is shared by the Tiger coaching staff.

The fact is Coach Miller is not issuing statements which radiate with optimism and the Tigers do not believe Saturday's game will be a practice scrimmage. What they do believe is that St. Louis is counting on winning and will go to any lengths to take the long end of the score.

LINE MEN TAKE 3 MILE HIKE

Contrary to the usual light practice scheduled for Mondays, the varsity went through a hard workout yesterday. Coach Phelan took his line on a cross country hike of three miles while Coach Miller worked the backfield out in starting and shifting.

The team came through the game last Saturday with comparatively few injuries. Humes has a bad elbow which will keep him out of the game for at least ten days. Novinger who has a tackle shoulder will be out for another week. Hardin will be back on the field next Monday and hopes to be in shape to play against Ames October 15. Allen Lincoln, whose broken hand has kept him out of practice so far this season, will have a chance to try out in the Billiken game Saturday.

CLEVINGER RETURNS FROM SCOUTING BILLIKEN GAME

Z. G. Clevenger, athletic director, who left Friday morning to scout the game Saturday afternoon between St. Louis University and Rose Polytechnic, returned to Columbia Sunday. While in St. Louis he made the final arrangements for the Tiger's trip and their hotel accommodations.

According to Clevenger both teams put up a good game. Webb, the 190 pound Billiken back, was the outstanding star of the St. Louis aggregation. McKinney, quarterback, made a 20 yard drop kick and Connor take kicked for 17 yards. Connor also took the ball over for a touchdown on an off tackle play. Clevenger said the entire backfield worked well together but the ends were weaker than the other line men.

CONZELMAN LEAVES F. U. BY REQUEST

James Conzelman, Washington University and all-Valley quarterback of last season, familiarly known on the Pikeaway as "Jerma" and "Our Jimmie," is authentically reported to have departed by request from his alma mater.

Conzelman, according to dispatches, cut too large a percentage of his classes last spring and was brought before the faculty. While answering to this charge, it was brought out that he is doing work which will not lead to a degree. Captain Potthoff is authority for the statement that Conzelman's eligibility will be cleared up immediately.

Fortunately for the Pikers, another easy game is on the docket this week-end. Drury College is the foe and Conzelman will not be needed.

COLUMBIA HIGH TO PLAY SATURDAY AT JEFF. CITY

"The game at Fulton last Saturday showed us the necessity of building up strong ends and a faster backfield," said J. J. Shy, director of athletics at the Columbia High School, this morning. "We shall devote our energies during the coming week to this."

WASHINGTON U. TO SEND BAND AND ROOTERS

Washington University is planning to send a student band and a large rooting delegation here on November 16. The dream of every Washington student, according to Student Life, the Washington University school paper, is, "to send a team that will beat Mizou, backed by a rooting delegation that will outout Mizou, aided by a band that will outplay Mizou."

A committee has been appointed to arrange for the transportation of the football team on November 13. If 150 students make the trip, a special train will be chartered. The advertising of the trip among alumni and students will be carried on extensively.

LARGE STAFF TO COACH AMES STUDENT BODY

One hundred per cent of the students taking part in some form of athletics is the ideal which the Ames athletic department will strive for this year. To accomplish this, or in other words to interest more than 4,000 men in some branch of athletic work, officials of Iowa State College have engaged for this year one of the most elaborate staffs of coaches and physical directors in the Missouri Valley Conference.

Dr. N. C. Paine, Ned Merriam and H. Otopalik are in charge of the three football squads which are going after the conference titles this season. Doctor Paine is a former pupil of Alonzo Stagg of Chicago University, and recently has coached at Baylor and Arkansas universities.

Merriam has been at Ames for some little time and will handle the track and cross country teams. C. W. Mayer will handle the physical training classes and C. E. Daubert will be in charge of the swimming activities.

Otopalik was a member of a famous Nebraska eleven which did not lose a game in four years.

TELLS OF AFRICAN MISSIONS

Council of Methodist Church Discusses the Work.

The Women's Methodist Missionary Council which met Friday afternoon in the Broadway Methodist Church devoted its time to the study of the work accomplished by the missionaries in Africa. Mrs. E. W. Crouch, chairman, gave a short talk on the general improvements which had taken place since the invasion of the country by the missionaries. She cited the unusual conditions under which they worked and told what they had accomplished.

Mrs. Luther Hardaway, another member of the council, spoke on the outlook of the Africans, emphasizing the utter hopelessness with which the African women looked upon the world in general. She said that each woman was owned by some one man and as subject to him as slave has ever been. She said, however, that much has been accomplished along this line and at present many African women as well as men have been converted and become staunch believers in the Christian religion.

The meeting closed with a poem read by Mrs. T. B. Stewart.

American Woman Pays Debt to Albanian Who Saved Her Life

Alex Dimitri at the College Shoe Shining Parlor tells a romance as interesting and as unique as if from a popular magazine. The last chapter of the story was revealed to Dimitri in a recent letter from his home in Albania.

In 1915 a young man risked his life to save a woman from death in a traffic accident in downtown New York. The man left before the woman had recovered sufficiently to thank him for his heroic act. He refused to tell his name, but informed a reporter that he was an Albanian. The woman was disappointed that she had not been able to express her gratitude to the young man.

Later the woman and her husband, an American doctor, entered the Red Cross service. When the Balkans were suffering from the ravages of yphus and the contending armies, she persuaded her husband to volunteer for service in Albania. An American hospital was established at Korcha, the home town of Dimitri, with the woman as head nurse and her husband as chief surgeon.

One day an Albanian girl was brought to the hospital badly wounded as a result of a Turkish raid in which the girl's father, mother and sister had been killed. The girl could only be saved by a transfusion of blood and there was no person in the community healthy enough to
